Tracie Jellison to Head up Retail Banking for Riverview

Vancouver, WA – July 1, 2022 – Riverview Bancorp, Inc. (NASDAQ GSM: RVSB) (“Riverview”, the “Company” or the “Bank”) has named Tracie Jellison Chief Retail Banking Officer.

Ms. Jellison joined the Bank nearly one year ago and has led its commercial team in the Oregon market. With her extensive experience on the retail side of the business, Tracie is happy to return to her roots.

Tracie is not a stranger to banking. In fact, she has worked in banking for more than 30 years, starting her career in Boise, Idaho, as a customer service representative. After three years of working on the front line with clients, she transitioned to become a consumer loan officer. After working for six years in that role, she was promoted to a senior loan officer, managing a team of lenders and the Visa credit card department. From there, Tracie made the transition to business lending.

“She has touched every corner of the banking business,” said Kevin Lycklama, CEO and President. “I asked Tracie to lead the retail department because of her deep knowledge of banking and her commitment to leadership. From branch management, training, sales and loan generation, Tracie’s experience is exactly what is needed to move our Retail vision forward. We are very excited for Tracie to implement strategies and tactics at the branch level.”

For the past 10 years, Tracie has mastered commercial lending, most recently at Riverview Community Bank and prior to that she was at Columbia Credit Union.

“I’ve enjoyed my time on the commercial side of the business,” said Tracie Jellison. “I’m excited to work with a talented Retail team to help businesses and individuals achieve their financial dreams. More than anything, I want to provide leadership to our team.”
