Riverview Community Bank Collects 955,000 Pounds of Food for Local Communities

(VANCOUVER, Wash.) – March 4, 2013 - Riverview Bancorp, Inc. (Nasdaq: RVSB). Riverview Community Bank is pleased to announce its annual Walk-and-Knock and Riverview Fill-A-Bag food drive efforts brought in the equivalent of 955,000 pounds of food in 2012. Riverview and its community partners donated the food and money collected to local food banks. The total, which includes a $7,500 contribution from the Bank, outweighs last winter's collection by 115 tons.

"Our customers, communities and partners are amazing," said Ron Wyseske, President of Riverview. "We are grateful to so many individuals for their support this winter, as we worked together to help families in dire need of food and proper nutrition. Not everyone understands the pain of daily hunger, and hopefully someday, no one will.

Winter 2012 marked Riverview's 11th consecutive year as a financial sponsor and collection site for the Walk and Knock of Clark County, the region's largest food drive. Branches in Washington state collected the equivalent of more than 385,000 pounds of food.

"We honestly could not have done it without the community's help," Wyseske said. "The Bank is honored to be associated with such great people and to make this contribution on behalf of all those who donated."
